DURING THEIR VISIT to The Infantry School at Fort Benning, Hon. Ronald Tree, member of the British Parliament and Hon. Joseph C. Baldwin, Congressman from New York, having missed luncheon connections, made an emergency stop to share chow with an Officer Candidate Class. Pictured eating in the woods near the field problem on which the students were engaged are Mr. Tree, Maj. Gen. Charles H. Bonesteel, commandant of The Infantry School, Mr. Baldwin, and Brig. Gen. George H. Weems, assistant commandant. "After visiting this school, it is easily understandable why American troops are so well trained," the Member of Parliament reported. (Official U. S. French Chief Inspects Countrymen in TIS

"You represent one more reason why the people of France should be thankful to the United States."

Maj. Gen. M. E. Bethouart, head of the French mission to the United States, and a ranking officer of the French army, made this statement Tuesday morning when he and the second French class of officers and aspirants who are training in the First Student Training Regiment of the Infantry School at Fort Benning.

The general, accompanied by Lt. Col. Alphonse, chief-of-staff of the French mission, and Maj. Alphonse, French air officer, arrived at Lawson Field Sunday for a two-day inspection of the French class. They left Tuesday afternoon.

He told the members of the class, which is the second of its kind to be trained for the French army here, that "you are doing a good job toward the liberation of your country. The training you are receiving here will be of great value to our army when we come along with our equipment. The French army is receiving constitutes great reason why our country should be thankful to the United States."

At a dinner which the general gave at the Officers' Club, Gen. Charles H. Bonesteel, commandant of the Infantry School, in the Officers' Club, he recalled the friendships and cooperation of the two countries during the First World War and said that the Germans hope that "our relationships will always be as warm and as cooperative."

He thanked the commandant for the hospitality shown his countrymen. In return, General Bonesteel gave Gen. Bethouart a copy of the W. D. Ruling On Holiday Passes, Furloughs Made

War Bond Entries Begin To Reach Bayonet Desk

The ink of last Thursday's issue of the BAYONET was hardly dry and no sooner was the announcement out concerning the big War Bond prize contest ending November 4 than contributions for the big issue of November 11 began trickling into the editors' office. This quick response to the call for poets, prosers, cartoonists, etc., to get busy assures Fort Benning Silver Anniversary issue of the BAYONET being the best ever.

The paper is offering six big prizes consisting of three $50 and a $25 War Bond each, and a $25 War Bond for the best serious and comic cartoons, the best two pieces of verse, and the best prose offering either of a feature story, editorial sketch, or short fiction.

The prize winners and honorable mention will be published in the giant issue next month. In addition there are in process of preparation articles on the history of Fort Benning and of all the major units stationed here; sketches of smaller elements connected with the post; biographical material concerning post personnel; together with scenes of pictures and layouts depicting life at the post.

W. D. Ruling On Holiday Passes, Furloughs Made

A policy of granting furloughs and passes from Thanksgiving Day, November 26, to January 11, 1944, has been announced by the War Department, according to information reaching Fort Benning this week.

This procedure is the same as followed last year, according to Captain Marvin L. Holland, chief of enlisted personnel at post headquarters.

From Thanksgiving Day up to and including December 10, furloughs may be authorized in accordance to the provisions of Army Regulations 615-275. Furloughs for holidays may be authorized from Dec. 11, 1943 until Jan. 11, 1944, provided not more than 10 per cent of the strength of the post is on furlough at any one time during the period. However, no furloughs thus authorized will be granted which permit enlisted men to commence their travel from the post or their homes during December 24 or 25, for Thanksgiving, Christmas or New Year's Days.

One day passes only may be granted to enlisted men Thanksgiving Day, not to exceed 10 per cent of the post's strength. Passes granted for Christmas Day will be issued only so as to require enlisted men to begin their travel not later than December 24, and to return to the post not later than Christmas Day nor later than December 26. Similarly, passes for New Year's Day will require enlisted men to begin their travel no later than December 31, and return to the post not earlier than January 1, not later than January 2.

For the period between December 11 and January 11, three day passes will not be granted over weeks ends to exceed 10 per cent of the strength of the post.

For the period of strength of the post is on furlough at any one time during the period. However, no furloughs thus authorized will be granted which permit enlisted men to commence their travel from the post or their homes during December 24 or 25, for Thanksgiving, Christmas or New Year's Day.

WAR FUND DRIVE SET

As the National War Fund campaign gets under way to rally military and civilian personnel at Fort Benning will be given an opportunity to contribute to the fund through their organizations, it was announced today by General Chairman Walter S. Fulton, former commanding general of the post.

General Fulton, who is heading the Muskogee county drive, has appeared before several military and civilian groups to explain the purpose of the drive and to encourage voluntary contributions.

As a special impetus to the campaign the officers at Post Headquarters, starting their part of the drive early, contributed $343. The post headquarters staff and other officers in the Station Complement will be asked to contribute to the National War Fund as all the agencies to benefit have formerly carried on their individual campaigns for funds.

Enlisted personnel, it was explained by General Fulton, are not to be solicited individually. If he went on the enlisted personnel wish to contribute to the campaign, he will be consolidated with passes authorized for Thanksgiving, Christmas or New Year's Day.

Week end passes will not be consolidated with passes authorized for Thanksgiving, Christmas or New Year's Day.

One day passes only may be granted to enlisted men Thanksgiving Day, not to exceed 10 per cent of the post's strength. "It is not possible in a single day for an accumulation of dignity to reenter the soul through the tiny hole through which it went out drop by drop for 20 years. The fact is that after the last war we were so unworthy . . . Liberty must be deserved."

Enlisted Personnel Tributes Gen. Fulton

At this time the enlisted personnel, including WACs and soldiers, pay tribute to our former post commander, Brig. Gen. Walter S. Fulton. This article is a token of our appreciation.

During his period as commandant, many developments were established such as: Patio Grill, for enlisted personnel and their families only; new Post Office and restaurant; paving our main streets and sidewalks in other areas outside the Main Post; the constructing of parachute towers, and other facilities for training, as well as erecting, improving of wooden cantonments for housing WAC detachments, O. C. S. and other outfits throughout the camp.

Besides putting through many important improvements, he is also responsible for the building up of the morale of the officers, enlisted men and women. He is a man among men, a gentleman and a scholar. It has always been a pleasure to work under him, either directly or indirectly.

Every regiment, detachment, service club, etc., has been under constant check by him, including the inquiring into conditions, how families are getting along, and whether anything of necessity was needed for their barracks or otherwise, though commanding officers of those outfits co-operated with him 100 per cent. It is fully appreciated.

Fort Benning is the keystone of the United States, ambassadors, congressmen and to the United States, ambassadors, congressmen other dignitaries come here more than to any other post in the country. During their brief stay they witness its landscaping, wonderful layout and improvements. They will long remember what is accomplished in his work, both social and military.

The general is not only liked but loved by every soldier and civilian. He is now retired. We shall continue to stand behind him as much as ever. We are glad of the fact that he has a successor of whom he can be proud and who will keep up the good work. Regardless of the general being a civilian, his presence will always be welcome at all times. We wish him best of luck, good health and success in his new venture.

Paratroopers Have Got More Brass!

These paratroopers is the world's best soldiers! Nattzzzz! Jeet! . . . That way they walk around with a cook air . . . Y'd think they could jump up and chin 'emselves on a high-tension wire . . . with a broken leg even! They must think it's sumpin' to jump outta an airplane with a bunch of bedsheet over their heads . . .

One guy sez to me . . . I'd like to see you try it one time . . . I sez, Hah! . . . any ol' time . . . He sez, Yah! . . . They'd need a sledge-hammer and three guys to kick you out of the plane! I betcha . . . I sez g'wan! . . . we guys in the Infantry is tougher than axles on a trolley car!

He sez, I hear they is using the Infantry to police up after we paratroopers do all the tough work . . . I sez, Hah! . . . Youse guys is softer than a egg what ain't been laid yet! . . . He sez, Whaddya mean? . . . I betcha y'd fold up after one day of "A" Stage paratroop trainin' . . . He sez, Y'd look like a morning glory at midnight . . . all beat and shrivelled! . . . Nattzzzz! . . .

I sez, Whaddya talk about the night before you make yer first jump? . . . He sez, Oh, we wondert if maybe we didn't pack the chute right . . . I sez, s'posin' ya didn't pack it correct? . . . He sez, We would get a extra week of training . . . Nattzzzz! . . .

I sez, An I suppose ya got a answer for how you guys manage to grab all the good-lookin' chicks? . . . He sez, Oh, most of us is young and goof-lookin'! . . . I sez, Most of youse guys I have seen have got faces more different than any choo-choo train . . . I sez, The only difference is that yer noses are screwed up than the Army bulletin boards!

He sez I am jealous because I can't wear shiny boots . . . I sez, Ah . . . you look like a dude of twenty years back . . . I sez, Only nowadays they don't make 'em with buttons no more . . . He sez, Hah! . . . But the gals don't think we look like dudes . . . I sez, Oh, well . . . ifen I needed boots to get me chicks . . . I would buy a pair! . . . He sez, Ya can't buy these unless you is a trooper . . .

He sez, By the way, how ar ya doin' with the chicks? . . . I sez, I still write to one I met last year . . . He sez, Hah! . . . Y'd better git into the paratroopers! Bud! . . . Youse are getting around less than blue fatigues!!!

I sez, I betcha ya can't talk about as must as we Infantry guys can . . . He sez, Don't be silly . . . we can tell 'em how we can shoot at a apple with machine gun at 200 yards . . . and hit it! I sez, So what? . . . We Infantry guys can pick off the stem of the apple! He sez, Yah, but I tell the chicks how we shoot so good as to make us some dessert of applesauce! Nattzz!

I sez, Whaddya think youse guys gonna do in combat? . . . You'll be alone a lot won'tcha? . . . He sez, Yeah, but that don't worry us none. We is touch! . . . I sez, I betcha they are loaded with artillery, Huh? . . . He sez, good to make us some dessert of applesauce! Nattzz!

3rd STR O. C. Tells Experiences In Japan

If you were going to get into this scrap and on foreign ground, your morale would get a terrific lift if you were to follow a man who has already made a personal reconnaissance of the place you were about to work in, wouldn't it?

Candidate Albie A. Vederoff, of the 18th Company, Third Student Training Regiment of the Infantry School, was born in Russia. During the war he was at the time of the First World War, his home town was virtually destroyed and most of his family killed. They moved to Japan, and as Vederoff explains it, under very friendly and favorable conditions. His first impression of that country was the famous Mt. Fujiyama from a boat docked in the harbor of Chichimatsu early in the morning, is one of lasting memory.

The surrounding country represented a fairytale land, with buildings and trees regularly cultivated with their background of smooth ocean water and salt sea smell. Under these conditions Vederoff learned to know the Japanese as a clean, hospitable and honest people. However, after getting to know them acquainted with how they were made into a ruthless machine under the supervision of the army for a few years.

Talking of the present conflict, Candidate Vederoff said that the tanks of the Japanese used on Peary Harbor were similar to those used during the campaign of 1905 when they took Port Arthur in Siberia without a formal declaration of war.

33rd Engineers Can Fight As Well As They Build

Though the 33rd Armored Engineers of Maj.-Gen. Lindsay McDonald Silverster's "Lucky Seventh" might well adapt as their slogan, "Build and Destroy" is also known throughout the division as one of the best-trained combat units in that organization.

Thoroughly trained in such subjects as mine laying, booby trap setting and bridge-building, these engineers are as proficient in any infantryman in ground fighting tactics.

Infantry training is practically "2nd best" for them, because they are used as combat troops as much as they are as engineers. When an advance is made it is the engineer who moves ahead with the reconnaissance to prepare the movement of the combat troops behind them. While building roads and bridges they are supported by the infantry, by whom they fight.

Sometimes armored engineers are called upon to act as their own reconnaissance and support while keeping the road ahead open for the tanks.

In the 33rd Armored Engineers Battalion the men aren't taught anything too technical because their work principally requires a good eye, a steady hand, "and damn good judgment." In the words of an engineer officer in the "Lucky Seventh."

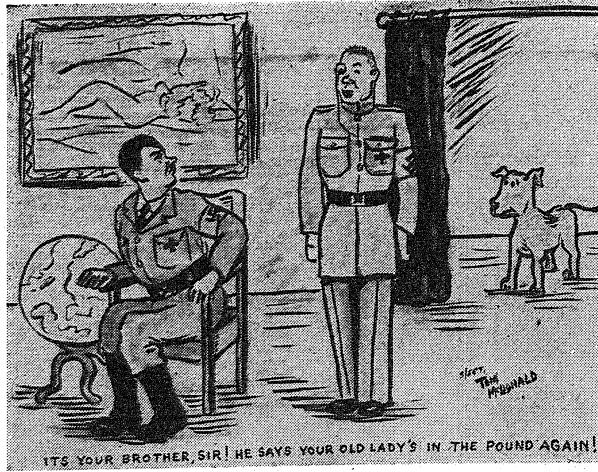

Learning to fight is taken from frequent newspaper accounts of the war, they keep well informed of enemy tricks with land mines and booby traps. Within recent months they have been devoting their time to training under conditions paralleling their actual combat experience, terrain they have laid and picked up 16,000 land mines in varying patterns under actual overhead machine gun fire.

They have also learned to keep hands off battlefield, however by keeping boots on the ground the object of most of them. A goodly share of this realistic under-fire training took place at night with a blackout in effect.

LIVE AMMUNITION

Live ammunition, singeing eyebrows, scorching hairless eyebrows loaded with half-charges of dynamite have taught these armored engineers more in a few weeks than they would have learned in months of classroom instruction, which complements their "practical warfare."

They "practise and destroy" under the toughest conditions available. One example is the locating and clearing of mine fields under night fire. Small arms fire is overhead and every fifth bullet is a tracer, but the "sappers" as they are called, experience a thrill never-

ASTP Corporal Quartet Is Fresh From Alaska

ASTP trainees have quite a genus for asking questions. So—four of the cadre in the 10th Company, ASTP Training Center of the Infantry School, are either going to have to think in their chests or spend a lot of time explaining about the row of colored ribbons they're wearing. They are Cpl. Harold Kirchmaier, Cpl. Alvin Netherton, Cpl. Clifford Johnson and Cpl. Bob Lyall, who have all been seen service in Alaska.

Although they were in different outfits, they all came back to the States at about the same time and met here at Benning where they're pushing a puff of smoke when they are pushed, pulled or turned.

Among other duties, the 33rd Armored Engineers also construct and maintain short lengths of road and bridge-work when the occasion arises. Usually an attached bridge company is used by the division for transportation and maintenance of cranes, trucks, and compressors for bridge-building.

However, line companies in the battalion do most of the actual construction work. Line companies also build small fixed bridges, and when they're not too weak for repair and too inconvenient to detour around.

Corporal Johnson of Lee Angeles, in charge of a 97-mm. gun, was at Cold Bay for a month and a half and then was among those who established a beach-head on Adak Island. Sometime after his arrival, he saw a Jap Zero and the next night experienced his first aerial combat.

Army Distance Runner Is Here

Lt. Saine Won Several Races For West Point

When Harold J. Saine was graduated from the United States Military Academy last June, West Point lost an outstanding runner on the half-mile, one-mile, and two-mile track as well as the longer five-mile cross-country track.

But the Point's loss proved to Lt. Benning's gain, for Lieutenant Saine, now a member of the 11th Company in the 1st Student Training Regiment, is taking the Officers Basic Course at The Infantry School.

Civilian Buys $1,400 Worth

Raymond S. Campbell, civilian employee at the Wood and Metal Shop of the Quartermaster Reclamation Section, purchased $1,400 worth of war bonds Saturday, with an investment of $1,040, it has been revealed.

Campbell, making the purchase during the course of the current war bond drive, already was having deductions made from his pay for the purchase of war bonds, which are at 2504 Dawson Street in Columbus.

George Selkirk, ex-Yankee outfielder, is now a Warrant Officer stationed at the Newport (R. I.) Naval Station.

1941 and '42, and track letters in '41 and '43.

His first year on the Academy team saw him victor over Columbia and Fordham in the mile run. From that he went on to win the two-mile meets against Columbia, New York, Maryland, Navy, Princeton, Pittsburgh, and New York University.

Saine also took first place in the two-mile Heptagonal Meet—Columbus, Cornell, Harvard, Princeton, Pennsylvania, Dartmouth, and Army—as well as in the cross country competition with Colgate, Cornell, and Columbia.

With Lt. Margaret E. Riley of Columbia, Miss., has begun work with Lt. Horace D. Teal, personnel adjutant to the Academic Regiment, and he will eventually take over his assignment completely.

A graduate of both WAC OSS and the Adjutant General School, Lt. Riley is typical of the trained WAC administrators being sent into important positions in the armed forces to relieve men for more active assignments.

TIS Combines 2 WAC Units

Combination of the two Infantry School WAC Detachments under the command of Capt. Janet Nash has been announced at the Headquarters of The Infantry School. At the same time it was announced that the Detachment would be attached to the Academic Regiment.

Capt. Nash was in command of the Detachment of WACs who arrived here Oct. 1 after a stay with the Second Army in Memphis. The detachments will remain in their present quarters. One of them with a complement of 100, and the other with 120.

It was the regimental commandant, Lt. John S. Roome, himself an All-American basketball player at West Point, who instituted the athletic program with the intention of improving the condition of his officers, and the men of his command.

Lt. Frank Van Nise is the executive officer of the Main Post Detachment, with Lt. Gladys Schreck as mess and supply officer.

Lt. Doris Hough is in command of the Detachment at Harmon.

With alarm at first by some whose waistlines had begun to bulge and then wasn't what it used to be, the period is now looked forward to with keen anticipation.

Each battalion supervises the activities of its officers, and everyone participating is not an amateur. "It's a sight to see an armament colonel swinging wildly at the pitches of a second lieutenant, and half the fun of the sessions is the good-natured jeering that passes back and forth at intervals."

A variety of sports are engaged in—swimming, golf, volleyball and softball have held the spotlight during the summer, and quite a bit of real ability has been turned up with waistlines have been reduced down.

With the football season at hand, everyone is looking forward to touch football games as a continuation of Colonel Roome's program of competitive athletics.

MAJOR DEANE

Announcement is made of the promotion of James A. Deane to the rank of major. Major Deane is a graduate of Gainesville, Fla., and received his commission in 1939 from the University of Florida. He completed the Officers' Basic Course at The Infantry School in November, 1940, and the Communications course in May of 1941. Major Deane is now an instructor in the Communications Section of The Infantry School. He is married and makes his home in Columbus, Ga.

1st TR Physical Program Goes Over Big With Men

On any Tuesday or Thursday afternoon, casual passersby are greatly concerned at the sounds of anguish emanating from the environs of the 1st Student Training Regiment. In the Infantry School, the old joints creak, breath comes in short pants, and strong men grow pale as long-unused muscles are taken out of storage and stretched tentatively. The one exception of the 1st S.T.R. is the 1st Company, which has been attached to the Infantry School.

Lieutenant Donald C. Pence, boxing champion at West Point before his graduation in June, has been attached to the 1st Company of the 1st Student Training Regiment, commanded by Colonel John S. Roome.

A welterweight, Pence led in United States Military Academy ring activities during 1941, '42, and '43. Last year he fought to a draw with Jimmie D. Johnson, the 1st 2 to 2 over Syracuse, 5 to 3 over Western Maryland, and 5 1/2 to 2 1/2 over Penn State.

He climaxed the '42 fight season by taking second place in the highly-fought Eastern Intercollegiate Tournament.

In 1943 he triumphed over Penn State, 5 to 3 and West Virginia, 5 1/2 to 2 1/2. Plenty of victims can warn those Nazis and Goons that they'd better steer clear of Lieutenant Pence's terrible right hook.

Five former major league stars have been shipped from the Great Lakes Naval Training Station to receive further training. They are John Rigney, White Sox ace, pitcher; Jack Hallett, Pittsburgh right-hander; Tom Ferrick of the Cleveland Indians; Frank Bison, "Brownies" pitcher; and Marvin Felderman of the Cubs.

Have a Coca-Cola = Here's tae us

... or how to build friendship in Scotland

Toasting a new acquaintance, the friendly Scotsman says, Here's tae us. The American fighting man responds, Have a "Coke", and a new friendship is sealed

... in Dundee as in Dallas. Around the globe Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes—has become the symbol of the friendly-minded.

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".

RECORD SECTION RAVE—This might well be a farm lass leaning on the barnyard fence, but actually it's smiling Sarah Bridges, pin-up rage of the lads who toil in the record section at post headquarters. . . . And instead of a barnyard fence, that's the picket enclosure at the Officers' club pool, which gave us an excuse to get lovely Sarah into a bathing suit, even though there wasn't any water in the pool! . . . Hope you don't mind, fellows, because you can bet we didn't. . . . Sarah hails from Starkville, Mississippi, the home of Mississippi State College. . . . Went to high school in her home town and married right after graduation. . . . Hubby is now an Air Force captain and was at Benning until recently. . . . She came here with him almost three years ago, and led a life of leisure for the first two years. . . . Tiring of this, she hied herself off to post HQ, landed in the record section and has been there ever since—much to the delight of everyone concerned. . . . The girl on the fence is an ardent bowler, and a good one, too. . . . Also rides frequently, adores dancing and enjoys swimming. . . . Finds being an army wife an interesting career. . . . BRIDGES ON MEN: I like men. They're charming, interesting and pretty nice to have around. . . . VITAL STATISTICS: Age—26. Height—5'6". Weight—120 pounds. Bust—35. Waist—26. Hips—36. Eyes—blue. Hair—brown (and she always sets it off with a flower in her hair). Complexion—fair with a ruddy tinge. A lovely lass who would adorn even the barnyard fence. (Signal Lab Photo by Sgt. Don Kortemeier.)

Colonel Wood Commands 4th SC District 4

Lt. Col. Reginald H. Wood, who has been serving as executive officer and sub-district commander of District Number 4, Fourth Service Command, has assumed command of that organization at Fort Benning, succeeding Lt. Col. H. D. Mendenhall, who has retired.

A native Utica, N. Y., Colonel Wood is a graduate of Hobart College, and in 1933 was graduated from the Cavalry School at Fort Riley, Kan. He saw service on the Mexican Border in 1916-1917 as a sergeant with the 1st New York Cavalry. In the First World War he saw action at Ypres and participated in the Somme and La-Salle offensive. On October 16, 1918, he was decorated with the Order of the Purple Heart. Since 1933 he has served as commanding officer of Troop B of the 121st Cavalry, commanding officer of the 1st squadron of the 121st Cavalry, and commanding officer of the 801st tank destroyer battalion (the 101st anti-tank battalion).

In civilian life he was a heating contractor. He is a member of the Kappa Alpha fraternity and the American Legion.

Junior Haddassah To Give Dance For Jewish Troops

The Columbus Junior Haddassah will give a dinner dance for Jewish soldiers stationed at Fort Benning on 2 p. m. (EWT) Sunday at the Standard Club at 1219 Brawley.

A host of girls from Atlanta, Montgomery, and Birmingham, have been invited to attend the affair.

A nominal admission fee will be charged. Reservations may be made with Miss Shirley Albert at 1039 Broadway.

The Junior Haddassah last Sunday entertained 65 Jewish soldiers from Benning at a Succot party on the lawn of the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Witt, 1323 Eberhard Avenue. Sandwiches, beverages, fruit, candy, and nuts were served.

Bill McCoy, star catcher on Princeton's 1942 baseball team and the best ball player turned out at Nassau Hall since Joe Berg, was killed recently when his Army training plane crashed in Texas.

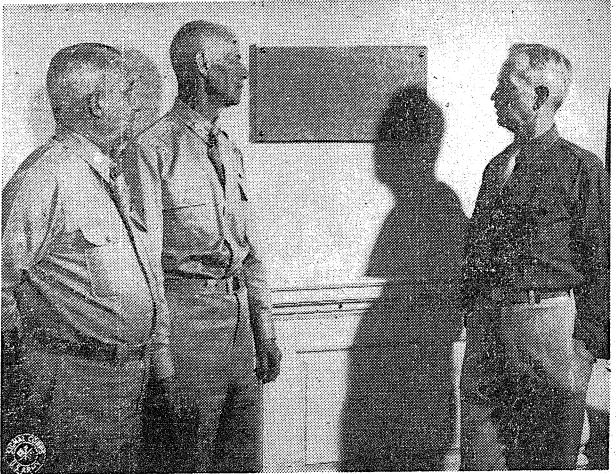

During a party at the home of Charles H. Bonesteel, commandant of The Infantry School, and Brig. Gen. George H. Weems, assistant commandant. On one occasion Mr. Tree was warm in his relations with the American soldiers.

He also addressed Baldwin took the occasion to state that he would oppose any amendment that would prevent the induction of fathers and that he would also oppose increased allotments to soldiers with children until the treasury department had means of obtaining the necessary revenue for such allotments.

He also said that he would press for a hearing on his soldier's Social Security bill, which includes a sizeable cash discharge fund for each soldier.

During a party at the home of

Colonel Wood, he was accompanied by Maj. Gen. Charles H. Bonesteel, commandant of The Infantry School, and Brig. Gen. George H. Weems, assistant commandant. On one occasion they arrived late for lunch

THE FIRST MARBLE MEMORIAL PLAQUE to be permanently installed in the chapel on the main post was dedicated Sunday at services. The plaque honors the memory of the late Col. Loren Prescott Stewart who while with the 51st Infantry was killed on Bataan, July 15, 1942. Shown here looking at the plaque are three of comrades of Colonel Stewart, a former student at the Infantry School. Lt. Col. H. E. McGaffey who served with him at Camp Blanding; Col. Reginald Kelley who served with him in the Philippines; and Lt. Col. Virgil A. Ector who was with him at Blanding. Colonel Stewart was Col. Kelley's executive officer at Blanding. (U. S. Ringling Bros. Circus Shows Here Oct. 26

Men whose happy mission in odds & Donegan roller skaters, Dr. Ostermaier and his internationally renowned horse ballet, and the Los Aseveras equestrian troupe.

Back after a seven-year absence is the hilarious Clown Fire House. Back too are Victoria and Torrence, one of the greatest high-altitude acts of all time, and last seen with the Big Show six years ago.

The circus would not be complete without Alfred Court, who this year presents new groups of amazing jungle beasts; graceful Eli Ardley, "the Russian Bird of Paradise"; the Shyrettes, unicycle wizards; the Flying Concellos, Wallendas, high wire acrobats; the Natta, and on the tightrope Massimiliano Truzzi, juggler, to name only a few of the hundreds of internationally established performers rounded up for this largest circus in existence.

CLOWNS Back again the emphasis on fun are Felix Adler, the King of Clowns, and Emmett Kelly, the great tramp pantomimist. With them are five more clowns who this year have three production numbers each.

The circus now is under direct management of a family whose name is synonymous with sawdust and canvas, with Robert Ringling, for the past six years vice-president of the Ringlings, schooled in the circus of his father, the late Charles Ringling, one of the five famous brother showmen, and Mrs. Aubrey Charles Ringling, Mrs. Aubrey Charles Ringling, who was the wife of the late Richard Ringling, a son of Alf T.

The big top is also in the Ringling tent, larger than last year's, with three rings and two stages, a larger and wider hippodrome track, and better seating accommodations which total around 13,500.

Food and transportation difficulties have been worked out with various agencies in Washington, and at every afternoon and evening performance the circus sets aside an honor section for those who purchase war bonds with their tickets.

Truck Regiment Beautifies, Landscapes Unit's Area

Units of the Truck Regiment, the Infantry School, have within seven months demonstrated to regimental personnel, who will be transferred to numerous civilian friends and officials, the astounding changes in landscaping and general beautification of grounds that can be made possible by well-planned effort and wholesome cooperation.

Taking over four widely-separated areas in December, 1942, the different battalions of this regiment found themselves housed in buildings in areas in various states of homelike atmosphere. These buildings, themselves, were in good shape for army regulations and admirable in size. However, the grounds surrounding barracks and other construction reflected various ideas as to beauty and general upkeep.

GRASS PLANTED The area in which Regimental Headquarters is located presented a rather depressing view to new soldiers, long removed from homes with shrubbery, flowers, and well kept lawns. Aids, ruts in front of the Headquarters building revealed the fact that every vehicle, from the little tractor-trailer vans had been parked there at some time or other. Denoting a two-fold use of this area were sticks protruding from the ground at regular intervals which were used as sideline markers for the football field used by members of the organization formerly using the area.

Areas adjacent to the orderly rooms were devoid of grass and any indication that the former occupants had not anticipated a prolonged stay in that particular area. Consequently, with grateful surprise that personnel of the Third Battalion witnessed the enthusiasm of the Commanding Officer, Major J. Vida, (who encourages and adds to the buildings and areas as directed by Lt. Col. Joseph S. Phillips, the battalion commander. Evidences of football

World News Bulletinized At Cafeteria

In a concerted morale program to keep the American fighting man well informed on current world affairs, Lt. Col. Charles Finneghan, post signal service officer, has arranged that a bulletin board featuring latest world news will be set up shortly in the main post exchange cafeteria.

The bulletin board, headed "It's Your War," will have the weekly Newspaper released by the Adjutant General's Division in Washington together with important headlines from the world's news, graphically illustrated by streamers attached to a world map. In addition the display will offer latest digests and interpretations of world events.

Col. Finneghan, explained that this is part of the army morale program, designed to enhance each soldier's belief in his mission and its urgency. He further stated that the bulletin board, which is to be maintained by himself and other media in use include G.I. movies on combat and frontpage activities, which tour the post at regular intervals, and pamphlets, such as "The War in Outline," a continuous looseleaf booklet of the war, which is available to all troops.

It is planned that unit special service officers will arrange displays, similar to the central bulletin board, for their own organizations. These would be featured in recreation rooms, day rooms, service clubs, and other meeting places throughout the post.

McFall President
Governors' Board
Of Officers Club

Col. John H. McFall, finance officer at the post, has been named president of the board of governors of the Officers Mess, Col. William Hobson, post commanding officer, announced this week. Col. McFall succeeds Col. Alfred Noyes who has left for another station.

Also on the board are Col. Wilson M. Spain, Col. Philip H. Kron and Col. John S. Poosma representing the Infantry School; Col. Jack Meyer of the station commandant; Lt. Col. John P. Oliver of the 7th Armored division; and Lt. Col. Marshall A. Goff of the Parachute School.

Confused thinking doesn't come from muddled minds. It comes from muddled morals.

World War I Vet Officer Joins 1st STR

Officer in World War I and active participant in the current conflict, Lt.-Col. Anson J. Smalley has been attached to the Second Company, First Student Training Regiment, pending his assignment to the instructional staff of the Infantry School.

First taking up the fight for Uncle Sam in 1916 when he joined a National Guard unit sent to the Mexican border, Smalley lost little time in becoming a sergeant. Little more than a year later, in October, 1917, he landed in France with the 42nd "Rainbow" Division, a vanguard of the American millions that were to turn the tide in that earlier struggle.

Picked to attend officer candidate school in France, Anson was graduated as a second lieutenant in June, 1918, and was assigned to the 37th Division. Having fought first in the defensive sector, he took part in the Saint Michel, Ypres-Lys and Meuse-Argonne drives. He was promoted to first lieutenant in October, 1918, and returned to civilian life the following year.

1st Regiment Top-Kick Remembers Benning When TIS Officers Raised In Rank

First Sergeant Louis F. Cody was supervising his crew, laying a command walk in front of the orderly room of the 13th Company, 1st Student Training Regiment—and doing a not inconsiderable part of the labor himself. Urged to take a breather, he told us about his 23 years' service at Fort Benning in as many minutes.

Top-kick since 1916 when he joined a National Guard unit sent to the Mexican border, Smalley lost little time in becoming a sergeant. Little more than a year later, in October, 1917, he landed in France with the 42nd "Rainbow" Division, a vanguard of the American millions that were to turn the tide in that earlier struggle.
